

What is Duke Energy hiding?

Just $2 billion...in rate hikes for customers like you.

Duke Energy claims its merger with Progress Energy will save customers $650 million over six years.

But Duke executives hid plans to spend over $2 billion improving its nuclear plants until the merger was approved.

So instead of saving households a little – under a buck a month – it looks like the merger will cost us a lot.

How did Duke executives hide $2 billion in planned rate hikes?

Ask the N.C. Utilities Commission.

Urge commissioners to force this corporate giant to prove – in open hearings – that the merger benefits customers, as required by law.

Tell them it's YOUR money Duke Energy is spending.

Contact Chairman Ed Finley

North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4325 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, NC 27699-4325 • finley@ncuc.net

See why NC WARN is challenging the Duke-Progress merger
www.ncwarn.org • PO Box 61051, Durham, NC 27715-1051 • 919-416-5077